The way a character acts, thinks, and feels tells us a lot about their personality. Authors will rarely come right out and tell us whether a character is nice or mean, honest or a liar, cheerful or gloomy. That is something we will have to figure out based on the actions the characters take. Please take a moment and think about Kate Weatherall from the Mysterious Benedict Society. Come up with four different actions that Kate performed during the first few chapters, and then try to discover why you believe she did those things. This should tell you what she was thinking, and perhaps what she was feeling. Thinking about these things will give us a better idea of what kind of character Kate might be.

I think that Kate is, and, I think this because, and		T	Γ =
I think that Kate is	Actions	Thoughts (why did they do it?)	Feelings
I think that Kate is, and I think this because
I think that Kate is, and, and
I think that Kate is,, and I think this because
I think that Kate is,, and, and
I think that Kate is, and, and
I think that Kate is, and, and
I think that Kate is,, and, and
I think that Kate is, and, and, and
I think that Kate is, and, and
I think that Kate is, and, and, think this because
I think that Kate is, and, and
I think that Kate is,, and, I think this because
I think that Kate is,, and, I think this because
I think that Kate is, and, and
I think that Kate is,, and I think this because
I think that Kate is,, and I think this because
I think that Kate is, and, and
I think that Kate is,, and, and
I think that Kate is,, and I think this because
I think that Kate is,, and, and
I think that Kate is,, and, and I think this because
I think that Kate is,, and, and
I think that Kate is,, and, and
I think that Kate is,, and, and I think this because
I think that Kate is,, and, and I think this because
I think that Kate is,, and, and, and
I think that Kate is,,, and, and, think this because
I think this because	I think that Kate is		and
I think this because	r crimix criac race is, and I think this because		